

How Your Competition and Gallery Digital Images may be used

If you enter images into digital club competitions a number of things may happen

- 1. If you gain a place the images are published on the Blog and in a results section on the website.
- 2. A selection team of members will also scrutinize them and may select some to represent the club in NCPF sponsored inter-club competitions.
- 3. Some may be selected by the webmaster and used to enhance the viewing enjoyment of the website.

Print competition entries are slightly different

- 4. You will normally be asked to supply a digital version for the Blog if you gain a place.
  - 5. The inter-club selection panel choose potential inter club competition prints from the digital files used in projection on results night and would then ask you to bring the prints in.
  - 6. The webmaster may also like to use images on the wider website from the member Galleries (not the Folios).
  - 7. In addition, your image may be used on Society exhibition posters and promotional material and to illustrate Blog items.
- 8. Generally, the Society assumes you would have no problem with your pictures receiving more exposure, and go ahead, though quite often you will be asked first.
  - 9. Equally, the Society recognizes there may be a particular image you would not want to be shown to a wider public, or even prefer none of your images to be used in this way - in which case it is a simple matter to inform the webmaster or competition secretaries of your wishes.
  - 10. In all cases of use of images by the Society, the copyright is retained by the photographer who will also be credited.
